Montreal, QC, Canada; November 26, 2021—With the COVID-19 pandemic still a major public health concern, we are reminded that the last century has been significantly marked by infectious diseases and new, virulent, pathogens that have endangered all humankind.

Following a very successful fundraising campaign which has raised $5.5 million to date, and was led by Jewish General Hospital (JGH) Foundation Executive Committee member Pierre Brosseau, the recently created Centre of Excellence in Infectious Diseases will be named in honour of Montreal philanthropists, JESS AND MARK PATHY.

The JGH's Jess and Mark Pathy Centre of Excellence in Infectious Diseases, with its team of cutting-edge researchers helmed by renowned infectious diseases expert, Dr. Karl Weiss, focusses on advancing knowledge of antibiotics and vaccines; preventing infections; developing rapid diagnostics and mapping the molecular structure of infections.

QUOTES:

"The COVID-19 pandemic has demonstrated the crucial importance of arming ourselves with a dynamic Centre of Excellence in Infectious Diseases, which Jess and Mark Pathy have been instrumental in enabling us to develop," says DR. LAWRENCE ROSENBERG, PRESIDENT AND CEO OF CIUSSS WEST-CENTRAL MONTREAL. "With this Centre, we are better able to continue placing our focus on the needs of patients who require treatment and care. Equally important, the Centre will help us prevent infection through a better understanding of existing and new micro-organisms. Ultimately, we will be in a stronger position to prepare for and cope with new outbreaks, thereby benefiting people in our CIUSSS, as well as those across Quebec."

"Infectious diseases represent the most significant challenge for medicine in the 21st century," said KARL WEISS, M. D., DIVISION CHIEF, INFECTIOUS DISEASES, JEWISH GENERAL HOSPITAL. "Funds donated to the Centre are going directly toward understanding, preventing and treating infections. More lab bench research is essential to improved clinical and epidemiological practices."

“The pandemic continues to remind us that infections are a threat to all, without exception or distinction. We feel lucky to count on the expertise of scientists who are working diligently to tackle what is the leading cause of death worldwide. As such, we believe this gift is a vital investment toward ensuring there is world-class expertise, innovation and research taking place to meet this challenge head on, and we’re especially proud to have all that happening right here in Montreal,” said JESS AND MARK PATHY.

“More than ever, the current pandemic hammers home the urgent need to invest significantly in cutting-edge research into infectious diseases. But today that research is underfunded. It is why the Brosseau Family Foundation wanted to support the creation of the Jess and Mark Pathy Centre of Excellence in Infectious Diseases. And one of the reasons why I agreed to Co-Chair the fundraising campaign for this initiative,” said PIERRE BROUSSEAU, SECRETARY OF THE JGH FOUNDATION.

“We are extremely grateful to JESS AND MARK PATHY for their lead donation and to all of the donors who joined us in establishing this important centre of excellence right here in Montreal. Together, we are helping all Quebecers and even those beyond Quebec,” said BRAM FREEDMAN, PRESIDENT AND CEO, JEWISH GENERAL HOSPITAL FOUNDATION.
